

04 November

16:30 - 18:00

EXTENSION LECTURE

URBANIZATION AND ITS INTERSECTION WITH POVERTY IN CITIES

INDIGENOUS URBANISM

About the speaker

Aravind Unni has completed his B.Arch from Jamia Millia Islamia, New Delhi and M.S. Arch from University of California- Berkeley, and is currently pursuing his PhD on Urban Social Movements from Tata Institute of Social Sciences in Mumbai. He is working as Urban Poverty Thematic Lead with Indo-Global Social Service Society, and handling developmental interventions with the most marginalized sections of the urban poor in more than 30 cities spread across 15 states. His core area of interest for research and action on urbanization and its intersection with poverty in cities, and has hands-on experience in working with communities over the last six years in participatory planning, formulating policy recommendations for people's concerns related to housing and livelihoods, and advocating for equitable and just cities. He is currently based out of Delhi.